Friday, February 22. 1706.

From the Amst. Cour. and Leid. Gaz. Feb. 25 and 27.

Rome, Feb. 6.

Cardinal Giudici, late Viceroy of Sicily, who came hither last Saturday from Naples, went the next Day to the Palace to pay his Duty to the Pope, who receiv'd him very favourably; and has since been taken up with making Visits to the College of Cardinals, according to Custom, with a numerous Retinue, and accompanied by many Persons of Quality. The Differences between this Court and that of Naples continue; the Pope has dispatch'd a Courier to Spain about them, and has deferr'd for some time the Excommunication with which he threaten'd the Viceroy of Naples, in hopes he will at length be oblig'd to make Satisfaction for his Infractions of the Ecclesiastical Immunities. In the mean Time, the Differences between the Pope and the Duke of Savoy are in a fair Way of Accomodation; and 'tis said his Royal Highness has already nominated the Marquis d'Oberr, to come to this Court with the Character of his Envoy, to bring the matter to a final Conclusion. In a private Consistory held last Week, the Pope nominated Cardinal Paolucci to be Chamberlain of the sacred College, and Signior Passionei was confirm'd in the Office of Secretary of the said College of Cardinals: 'Tis discours'd his Holiness has a Design to confer the Office of Steward of his Household upon Don Annibal Albani one of his Nephews, and that of Captain of his Cuirassiers on Don Jeronimo Althieri Brother of the Cardinal of that Name: 'Tis also talk'd, that he will declare Signior Borromeo Master of his Chamber, tho' the Agent of the Duke of Mirandola makes great Interest for that Office for Signior Pico that Duke's Uncle. 'Tis wholly uncertain yet, when his Holiness will make a Promotion of Cardinals, to fill up the great Number of Places vacant in the Sacred College: He has promis'd to send to the Ferrareze, a considerable Sum of Money, to be distributed among the Inhabitants of that Province, that were ruin'd by the overflowing of the Po. The Ambassadors of Spain and Venice, had a Conference a few Days ago at a Country Seat 2 Miles without this City, but the Subject of that Conference is kept Secret. From the Amst. and Leid. Gaz. dated Feb. 25 and 26.

Venice, Feb. 13. Since the Departure of the Duke of Vendome from Lombardy for the Court of France, nothing considerable has pass'd between the Troops of the 2 Armies in the Bressan and the Veroneze. The French have built some new Ports at Trecenta in the Ferrareze; and 'tis talk'd they expect there the Count de Medavi, who commands in chief the Troops of the 2 Crowns during the Absence of the Duke of Vendome, to watch carefully the Motions of the Imperialists, whose Detachments advance quite to Bonavigo; and Collonel Patei is advanc'd from St. Martin in the Veroneze to Alberedo. Baron Martini, who is recover'd of his Indisposition, is gone from Crema to the Quarters of the Imperialists. We have Advice from Salo, that a good Number of Barks are arriv'd there, laden with Corn, for the Imperialists; and that Count Reventlau, their Commander in chief, having there joyn'd General Zumjungen, is gone with him to Moderno, Toscolano, and other Places, whither he has caus'd a great Number of Rations of Provisions and Forrage to be carried, which makes it presum'd he has some Enterprize in View. The Letters from Constantinople of the 21st of December past, give an Account of the Arrival there of the Chevalier Carlo Ruzzini, Ambassador extraordinary from this Republick to the Ottoman Porte; and that the Plague in that Country had begun to decrease considerably. The 11th Instant, the Head of a Bull was cut off in the Square of St. Mark, according to annual Custom, in Memory of a Victory gain'd a long Time ago by the Republick. The Doge was not present at the Ceremony, being laid up with the Gout; but all the Senate was there, with a great number of Persons of Quality of both Sexes, and a vast Crowd of common People. The Electors of Bavaria continues here, nor is there any Talk at present of her Departure for Brussels.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Feb. 25.

Cologne, February 23. The Estates of this Electorate have been some Time assembled here. And the 25th Instant the general Diet of the Circle of Westphalia will be open'd here. The Elector Palatine has order'd his Officers that are absent from the Quarters of his Troops that are in the Service of Holland and that are appointed to reinforce the Imperial Army in Italy, to repair forthwith to their respective Regiments, on the Penalty of being cashier'd; those Officers excepted who are employ'd in raising the necessary Recruits for those Regiments: Which Officers have likewise receiv'd Orders to compleat their Recruits in a very short Time, on the like Penalty of being cashier'd. The Count of Harfsweld, Collonel of one of those Regiments, is come hither, and is making Preparation for his Departure for Italy. The independant Company of Prussians that are quarter'd in the Village of Duyts over against this Town on the other side of the Rhine, have lately brought in thither several Hostages which they had taken from divers Places in the Dutchy of Luxembourg for Contributions.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated Feb. 26.

Namur, Feb. 23. The Enemy work very hard to strengthen the Fortifications of Huy. They have also mark'd out some new Works for strengthening the Citadels of Liege, and have summon'd in Pioneers to work upon them. In this Place and Louvain greater Magazines than usual are laying up.

Brussels, Feb. 24. 'Tis reported here, that the Electors of Bavaria and Cologne will go to the French Court, before the opening of the Campaign. 'Tis also talk'd, that the Electors of Bavaria will come hither in the Month of May. A certain General Officer who lately lost a very great Sum at Gaming, was yestern Day found dead in his Chamber leaning on a Table; 'tis thought he died of Grief and Vexation for his Folly and Misfortune.

From the Paris Letter, dated Feb. 22.

Paris, Feb. 22. Yesterday the Venetian Ambassa-did had a private Audience of the King, and was assur'd by his Majesty that his Troops which are in and about the Polesines should observe exact Discipline. The last Advices from Casal confirm, that all the Troops the Duke of Savoy has on Foot at present, amount but to 2000 Horse and 8000 Foot, therein including 4 or 5 Regiments of Germans which by the great Fatigues and Losses they have endur'd are reduc'd to about 250 Men each. They write from Perpignan the 15th Instant, that since the Duke de Noailles march'd into Catalonia, the Rebels had not only abandon'd several Posts in Cerdagne, but likewise Puycerda; and that the said Duke was preparing to lay Siege to Gironne. The Marshal de Theffe, has, with the Consent of his Catholick Majesty, made over the Title and Privileges of a Grandee of Spain to the Count de Theffe his Son, who is going to Marry Mademoiselle Bouchu. They write from Collioure, that a Frigate of 24 Guns and another Vessel of 10 Guns were arriv'd there, and were bound with all sorts of Provisions for Roses: And that as soon as they had deliver'd their Lading, they would go in Chace of 4 of the Enemy's Barks that were cruising on that Coast.
